FCSO Dive Team Conducts Training at Florida Hospital Flagler

The Flagler County Sheriff's Office (FCSO) Dive Team is always looking for opportunities to hone their skills and today was no different. The Florida Hospital at Flagler (FHF) asked for assistance in locating broken metal nozzles from the fountain on their property and the FCSO Dive team responded.

While attempting to locate the metal fountain pieces, the Dive Team was given the opportunity to undergo more advanced training with metal detectors and conducting a safe underwater search.

"We were happy to help the hospital locate their fountain pieces and turned it into a training exercise," Sheriff Rick Staly said. "There is always room to improve. Techniques change, equipment advances, and in order to keep ahead of the curve we train whenever possible."

The FCSO Dive Team was not alone in the retention pond, spotting three alligators swimming there as well.
