Sheriff Staly is a Finalist for NRA Officer of the Year

Flagler County Sheriff Rick Staly met with NRA TV and Lt. Colonel Oliver North, NRA President, on Monday at the Flagler County Sheriff's Office. Sheriff Staly is a finalist for the 2018 NRA Law Enforcement Officer of the Year award. All of the finalists are being filmed for an episode of "American Heroes" to air on NRA TV this spring.

Sheriff Staly and Lt. Colonel Oliver North.

Sheriff Staly is a life member of the NRA and was selected as a finalist for saving the life of an Orange County Deputy Sheriff early in his career and for his leadership of FCSO and its positive impact in the community.

"It is an honor to be considered for such a prestigious award and represent the heroes in law enforcement serving America and those that have fallen in the line of duty," Sheriff Rick Staly said. "The entire process has been exciting and it was great to meet an American hero! I'm grateful to be considered among the other exemplary law enforcement officers."
