The investigation by Flagler County Sheriff's Detectives following the shooting revealed that Williams traveled to meet Saint-Felix for a narcotics deal. Williams entered Saint-Felix's vehicle and while trying to rob him of his drugs and money shot him in the back of the neck. Williams then fled the scene.

Williams voluntarily agreed to meet with Flagler County Sheriff's Detectives at the Daytona Beach Police Department on Thursday evening where she was taken into custody and arrested.

“This shows again that where there is illegal drugs there are guns and violent crime,” Sheriff Rick Staly said. “Our detectives, patrol, communications, CSI and Crime Analytics Unit did a great job following up on all leads in this case and did not rest until they identified and located the suspect and witnesses. The victim is expected to live but this case also underscores the hazards of being a drug dealer. Fortunately, in this case, no innocent persons were injured.”

Williams was charged with Attempted First Degree Murder with a Firearm, Attempted Robbery with a Firearm, and Attempted Burglary while Armed. She is being held at the Volusia County Jail awaiting extradition to Flagler County.

The investigation into this case is ongoing.
